DOYLESTOWN MAN TELLS OF HIS TRIP THROUGH EUROPE

Stace B. McEntee Addresses
Kiwanians and County
Seat Teachers

TELLS OF WELCOME

Speaker States That People
Of Europe Are Polite And Most Cordial

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 15.—The good things of Europe were particularly mentioned Tuesday night in an interesting address by Stace B. McEntee, of Doylestown, before the weekly dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Doylestown at Brunner's Restaurant.

Mr. McEntee spoke to the servicemen and their guests, the teachers of the Doylestown public school, thirty-eight in number. The speaker recently returned with his wife from an extensive tour of Europe. He deplored the fad of going abroad and coming home with a lot of complaints after a hasty visit.

"You are treated nicely abroad," declared Mr. McEntee. "You must remember you are a guest of those people when abroad, just the same as they are your guests when they come to America. A good many Americans go over and try to rub it in. Such folks have more money than brains and use very little of either. Go to the folks in Europe sympathetically and you will get along well with them. Of course America is a great country, the best there is, and the other countries know that, but do not want to hear it rubbed in by tourists. They need our sympathy."

Mr. McEntee said that he saw very few drunken men abroad, but that in Scotland he did notice several natives running to form with a famous brand of whiskey. He declared that in his opinion a lot of good time was wasted abroad sipping wine and growing grapes. In Italy particularly, he said, everybody sipped wine half the night.

"We should appreciate America. The class distinction in Europe is disastrous. Here in America we all are on a common level, while in Europe such a condition does not exist. It is difficult for the children of other than the wealthy class to get the opportunity in education that the public schools afford in America."

"You feel proud of the Statue of Liberty when you pass out of New York harbor. It seems to say to you 'You are the son of a great country and a man of many privileges.'"

Mr. McEntee said that he landed in Southampton and went directly to Oxford, the "university town" of England, where there are twenty-three colleges, of which Christ's College, once attended by William Penn, is the most interesting.

Edinburgh, Scotland, another stop of interest on the trip, was described by Mr. McEntee as a very beautiful city located in a country that he described as "one of the greatest in the world."

A trip through Ireland, where Mr. McEntee visited some of his ancestors, proved to be interesting. He said that he found Ireland a fine and beautiful country but torn apart through religious and political strife.

"The trouble with Ireland is the great amount of narrow-mindedness of the people on the question of religion. This is true to a great extent in many of the countries on the other side. I do not like such a condition."

Mr. McEntee passed through Wales and back to London, a city he described as "a great place, a little slow, not like New York, but full of progressive history and impressive monuments." England, he said, is fond of its great heroes, and it is well that such is the condition. He described the English men as among the finest physically in existence.

In Holland, the Peace Palace of the Hague was visited and was described as a very interesting place. Brussels was described as a very beautiful city, not as large as Paris, but in Mr. McEntee's opinion, "as fine as Paris."

The trip to Paris, Mr. McEntee said, was a real treat. The central section of Paris, in the speaker's opinion, is the most beautiful place in the world. Switzerland was also enjoyed by Mr. McEntee. He said that in the opinion of members of his party from the Rocky Mountain States who were touring with him, and others from the Canadian Rocky sections, the mountains in Switzerland were the finest in existence.

In Italy, Rome was held up as the most interesting place, and as fine as any modern city. The dictatorship in Italy is impressive, the speaker declared. Premier Mussolini is a great and progressive man, and is noted by an outstanding trait, of being broad-minded in matters of religion. That the Premier is accomplishing great things in Italy, was the opinion formed by Mr. McEntee and his party of tourists.

Vienna, Austria, was described as a city just as beautiful as Paris in parts, but located in a country that has been short of her territory as a result of the war.

Mr. McEntee highly praised the Republican Candidate For Sheriff

T. HART ROSS
Southampton Township

T. Hart Ross, a well known citizen residing in Southampton township, is the son of the late Louis H. and Elizabeth Ross, and was born December 14, 1867 in Warwick Township, where he received his education in the public schools and lived until 1892, when he moved to Southampton township and engaged in farming for over thirty years. For many years he has been identified with the public affairs in his community; serving as School Director, Road Supervisor and Township Treasurer. He is now in the employ of the State Highway Department as road foreman and as such his services have contributed largely to the improvements of the roads under his supervision.

Mr. Ross is a life long Republican and has always taken an active interest in the affairs of his party, serving as the Republican Committeeman in his district for the past twenty-five years. He married Caroline M. Paxson and they have six children. The opponents of Mr. Ross at the Primary elections are Frank Robinson, of Lower Makefield township, and John C. Valentine, of Northampton township, who was elected Constable on the Democratic ticket in his township.

H. H. GANSER HEADS SUBURBAN GAS CO.

Named General Manager Of
U. G. I. Subsidiary Serving
Here

BRYANS IS THE SUPT.

Appointment of H. H. Ganser, of Norristown, widely known utility expert, as general manager of the Philadelphia Suburban Gas and Electric Company, a U. G. I. subsidiary, was announced Tuesday by Arthur W. Thompson, president of both companies.

Mr. Thompson at the same time named H. B. Bryans, of Norristown, as general superintendent in charge of engineering and J. W. Heins, of Philadelphia, auditor in charge of all accounting.

The operating headquarters of the subsidiary corporation will be moved immediately from Philadelphia to Norristown.

The company serves at least 600,000 persons in a territory of approximately 1400 square miles in Montgomery, Chester, Delaware and Bucks Counties.

Gas and electricity are served by the subsidiary to Norristown, Chester, Pottstown, Coatesville, Phoenixville, Conshohocken, Ardmore, Bryn Mawr, Villanova, Wayne, Devon, Paoli, Jenkintown, Ambler, Doylestown, Langhorne, Bristol, New Hope, West Chester and Morrisville.

In addition to his appointment as general manager, Mr. Ganser also is vice-president of the company in charge of the Schuylkill division, an office he held prior to the merger of the Philadelphia Suburban with the Counties Gas and Electric Company. He has been in the utility business for nearly thirty years, and is one of the best-known experts in the East.

He began as a clerk with the old Norristown Electric Company, advancing through all the jobs in the business to his present position.

Mr. Ganser is vice-president of the Montgomery Trust Company and of the Valley Forge Hotel Company, both of Norristown.

Mr. Bryans, who is well known in engineering circles, was engineer of the Schuylkill division prior to his appointment as general superintendent. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and has been in the gas and electric business since 1907, when he started with the U. G. I. as a cadet engineer in Philadelphia.

Mr. Heins has had a broad experience in utility accounting work, as a traveling auditor for U. G. I. and as assistant agent of the Philadelphia Gas Works, which latter position he left to go to Norristown.

"Local divisions will operate as units as heretofore, except the local managers will report to Mr. Ganser," Mr. Thompson stated. "These changes in organization are in line with our policy to co-ordinate the work of the recently merged companies, so as to obtain the highest possible operating efficiency. Economies have been effected that have resulted in rate reductions throughout the territory totaling approximately $740,000."

INCONSISTENCIES COMPOUNDED

(EDITORIAL)

THROUGHOUT this campaign the public has had many evidences of the insincerity of the Independent movement, but none more impressive and conclusive than were shown in the efforts to draw the School Board into a political controversy which the town has been told time and again by the Independents, relates only to the so-called fire defense issue.

This evidence was emphasized and made the more repugnant, when John F. Smoyer, addressing a public meeting in the Sixth Ward, bluntly asked his hearers to vote only for the Independent candidate for School Director, whom the Independents had put up against Mrs. Fabian and Jacob Young.

Smoyer apparently had no qualms about indulging in that teachery, although as an active member of the Fathers' Association, which has worked in closest harmony and co-operation with the School Board, he has time and again expressed unqualified endorsement and approval of the able work of both Mrs. Fabian and Mr. Young.

Not only has the School Board nothing even remotely to do with the fire defense question, which has been used as a smoke screen for the real motives and objects of Gilkeson, Smoyer, et. al., but the School Board is not under criticism upon any other score. As at present constituted it is one of the best balanced Boards in the State, and it has solved many difficult and perplexing problems in a most efficient and satisfactory way.

Therefore, the placing of a candidate in the field in opposition to Mrs. Fabian and Mr. Young, and the action of Smoyer himself in asking that voters mark their ballots only for the Independent candidate, although two are to be voted for, is obviously a deliberate effort to defeat either Mrs. Fabian or Mr. Young, and is an act of the basest ingratitude for able and conscientious service rendered by both.

Mrs. Fabian, by reason of the training she acquired at the West Chester Normal School, has been a most valuable member of the School Board. At the time of her election, six years ago, she brought to the Board a knowledge of the inside workings of the schools and the educational system which the Board never possessed before. As a member of the School Committee she has co-operated with the Superintendent in the selection of teachers, and many other highly important phases of the school system, and deserved especial credit for her share in developing the Junior High School. Her defeat would be a colossal injustice, as well as an irreparable loss to the schools.

Because Mr. Young is of a quiet and rather retiring disposition, comparatively little has been heard of his real worth as a member of the School Board; but especially in all mechanical matters relating to the actual physical maintenance and operation of the school system has he been of immeasurable value, and it is a fact known to those familiar with the activities of the Board that no question relating to heating, lighting, etc., or any aspect of physical maintenance and operation, is disposed of without Mr. Young's advice. His interest has been active, constant, sincere, and of distinct value; and there have been occasions when, during the illness of a janitor, he has himself filled that place, without pay.

These are the two members of the Board who come up for re-election this year, and whom the Smoyer Independents have set out to defeat in a campaign which they have asserted relates wholly to the fire defense issue.

Their hypocrisy is too obvious; their real purposes too clear.

The candidates for re-election as School Directors have nothing to do with the fire defense question. In attempting to accomplish their defeat, the so-called Independents are following the same utterly inconsistent and reprehensible course which they pursued when they set up candidates against James L. McGee for Assessor in the Second Ward; and against Arthur Wright for Assessor in the First Ward—both of these men being active firemen in good standing.

It is the same course of inconsistency and hypocrisy which was shown in Raymond A. Nevegold's failure to run for the non-paying office of Councilman, he electing, instead, to seek the only paying office to be voted for in the present Primary by the voters of the Sixth Ward.

Military Honors Given To Edward Ennis, Jr.

When the body of Edward Ennis, Jr., was lowered into the grave at St. Mark's Cemetery yesterday, a squad of former buddies and members of the Robert W. Bracken Post No. 382 American Legion, stood at attention while a bugler sounded taps.

Ennis who was one of the first to enlist from Bristol served 18 months overseas with the American Expeditionary forces.

High requiem mass was held in St. Mark's Church where many attended. Percy G. Ford sang "Nearer, My God, To Thee," and Mrs. Edward Keating sang, "Face to Face."

A military escort marched beside the hearse to the cemetery from the residence of the deceased.

BACK FROM EUROPE

Mrs. Clifford L. Anderson, wife of Burgess Anderson, has arrived at her home, 1902 Radcliffe street, following a three months' trip throughout a number of European countries.

The Daughters of Columbus will participate in a straw ride tonight. Those who intend to go on the trip are asked to meet at Corson and Buckley streets at 7.45 o'clock.

Messrs. Albert Obrecht and Arthur Spicer, of Mill street, visited relatives in New York this week.

Neshaminy Falls Resident Will Be Buried in Bristol

John McBride, a resident of Maple avenue, Neshaminy Falls, died at his home yesterday following a lingering illness. The deceased is survived by his wife, Mary McBride.

High mass will be said on Friday at 10 a. m., at Our Lady of Grace Church, South Langhorne, and burial will be made in St. Mark's Cemetery, Bristol.

—Miss Annie B. Landreth, of Radcliffe street, who has been passing the summer months in Spring Lake, N. J., has returned to Bristol.

—Rev. and Mrs. Henry Stuart Paynter and family, of Radcliffe street, have returned from a vacation spent in Ocean City, N. J.

—Mrs. Ida Bell, mother of Mrs. Elizabeth Pearson, of Crofton, died at the Cooper Hospital, Camden, N. J., yesterday. Mrs. Bell, who was burned while tending to a bonfire at her home on Tuesday, September 6th, had been confined to the New Jersey institution since that time.

—Dr. George T. Fox is in Europe attending the convention of the American Legion. He plans to return here October 15th.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Dodds and son, of Milwaukee, Wis., who have been spending some time in Bristol have returned to their home.

Herbert Lawrence Registers At University of Penna.

Herbert Lawrence, of Bristol, will be among the students who will register in the freshman class of the University of Pennsylvania, when it opens for the 1927-1928 term on September 27. It was announced by the office of admissions of the University.

Lawrence is the son of Mrs. Ernest Lawrence, and prepared for the University at the Friends' Select School and Germantown Academy, taking an active part in the student life of both institutions. Lawrence was a member of the soccer, baseball and basketball teams of the Friends' Select School and of the basketball, soccer and tennis teams at Germantown Academy. He will enter the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce of the University.

During the registration period Lawrence will join with other members of the Class of 1931 in the celebration of Freshman Week, which was instituted last year in order to familiarize the new students with the University at the outset of their college careers, and which, because of its success, has been made a permanent part of the University program. At this time members of the incoming class will meet the deans of their respective departments together with other officials of the University, and will be acquainted with student life and traditions in a series of tours and meetings conducted by members of the student honor societies.

Returning students will find many changes on the University campus. The Sydney E. Hutchinson Gymnasium, adjoining the Palestra, has been completed and will be the center of the indoor sports of the University. A feature of the gymnasium is a regulation swimming pool with a spectators' gallery seating 1500 people. Weightman Hall, the old gymnasium, will serve as offices of the Council on Athletics of the University, and a barracks for the reserve officers training corps.

In addition, the Irvine Auditorium, the new University auditorium, which will seat 2500 people, and will be equipped with a theatre stage complete in every detail, and the new $250,000 building of the University Christian Association are rapidly approaching completion. Work also has been begun on the million dollar laboratory of anatomy and biochemistry, which will be completed during the summer of 1928.

NEWPORTVILLE FIREMEN DIG GROUND FOR HOUSE

"Bricks" Are Being Sold And
Peach Festival Is To Be Given

TO ERECT BUILDING

NEWPORTVILLE, Sept. 15.—Ground was broken here within the past few days at the site of the proposed new station for Newportville Fire Company No. 1. The site upon which the new structure will be erected is on the Newportville Road, leading from the village to Midway, and the plot, measuring 50x125 feet, was donated to the company through the generosity of Charles Goodbred, a resident of Newportville.

Co-operation on the part of the members of the company has made possible much of the work thus far, and services of 29 brick-layers from Philadelphia, friends of the firemen, have been enlisted to assist with the work of erecting the building which will be of red brick. Said Philadelphia workmen are planning to come here in a body some Sunday in the near future and work upon the station.

The building will be 30x64 feet, of one story construction. The basement underneath will be the same size as the building. Two sets of doors will be at the front, while on each side will be two five-foot exit doors. At the rear a temporary partition will be built, so that whenever it is the desire of the company to enlarge the building, the work can readily be accomplished.

The one main room will be finished in plaster, and the floors will be of maple. The floor finish will enable the company to conduct dances and other affairs in its headquarters. The trimming on the outside of the station will be of limestone. All sash will be of steel.

Hope is held forth for the completion of the building by the latter part of November, as plans have already been approved by the State, and work has already been started with a will.

Bricks are being sold for a small sum, and neat receipts are given those who purchase same, showing that the purchaser is assisting financially in the erection of the building. On September 17th a peach festival will be held on the site, and the monies derived from this sale will likewise be used in the building fund.

The apparatus owned by the fire company is now being housed on the farm of Charles Goodbred; and it is the expectation of the company to purchase a new pumper in the spring.

The company is now comprised of about 65 members, the officers being: President, William Clifton; vice-president, John Birkey; secretary, Robert Lewis; treasurer, Mr. Lee; chief, Harry C. Haering; assistant chief, Norris Muth; foreman, Joseph Saxon; assistant foreman, William Beck.

(Special to Courier)

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 15.—Fifteen more cases were disposed of yesterday in the criminal court of Bucks County before Judge William C. Ryan, who is presiding, and Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Stroudsburg, who is assisting in Court No. 2.

Edward J. McGee and James Meriner, both of Philadelphia, who were arrested by Deputy Constable Howard R. Sattler, of Bristol township, on a charge of stealing several loaves of bread and some doughnuts, previous to an attempt to commit felonious entry at China Hall, the headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan, at Croydon, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Shull and were sentenced to pay the costs in the case within sixty days; and were placed on probation.

The prosecutor in the case, the proprietor of a chain store at Croydon, told Judge Shull that he did not wish to press the charge. The day before, bills against McGee and Meriner, charging the attempt to enter China Hall, were ignored by the grand jury.

Whittaker told the Court that he had taken one drink of beer in the afternoon before he left Belleville. Other witnesses who saw the defendant while in Bristol described him as "strictly sober."

A warning was given yesterday to Charles Wasyi Sitarski, proprietor of the Blooming Glen Hotel, when he was fined $200 and costs by Judge Ryan after he had pleaded guilty to the possession of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes at his hotel on June 24 when it was raided by Trooper Felix R. Gowan, of the State Police. District Attorney Eastburn informed the Court that complaints had been made about the character of place being conducted by Sitarski since the raid.

FIRE ESCAPE IS PASSE

When doctors disagree the patient dies. When scientists disagree it is merely proof that science is growing. Modern science is discovering many fallacies in "scientific truths" of yesterday and much that is considered "scientific truth" today will be disproved by future scientists. These outgrown conclusions of scientists are not untruths, rungs in the ladder by which science arrives at the truth.

This is especially true with the science of structural engineering. The fireproof building of one period fails to be proof against fire in a later period. And then there is the fire-escape.

From the time urban man discovered the need for fire-escapes until a few years ago the skeleton affair of steel bolted precariously to building walls was thought to afford consummate safety. A building thus equipped was popularly supposed to be ahead of the times in the way of safety-first appliances and provisions.

Now safety engineers say these flimsy contrivances are proof that buildings equipped with them were not built with adequate exits, that the architect or builder overlooked this important matter until the structure was finished and then stuck a fire-escape to the wall as an afterthought.

One of the weekly magazines devoted to humor speaks of the old type of fire-escape as a "semaphore to show that human lives are in danger and for the use of a limited number of athletes and human-fies."

Absence of one of these zig-zags of steel from a new building does not necessarily mean it is a fire-trap. The chances are there is a built-in fire-escape shaft that is both smoke and fire proof.

FINING TOURISTS

Over a certain period one-third of the motorists fined for traffic violations in the Province of Quebec, Canada, were tourists from the United States. That means two Canadians were fined for every one American, though it is estimated only about 10 per cent. of the automobiles in the province were from the United States.

None accuse the Canadian traffic courts of persecuting the American tourist or coveting his dollars, and it is not likely there is any foundation for such a complaint. Canada is making money from tourists flocking across the border by the hundreds of thousands, so it would be more natural for her to tolerate impositions on the part of motorists than on the part of motorists taking advantage of the situation.

Why is it so many motorists, as soon as they leave their own country, state or municipal police jurisdiction, drive with reckless abandon, paying as little attention as possible to local traffic regulations? It is because nine out of ten times they will be let off with a warning because they know they will be out of the reach of a subpoena in a few minutes?

Not all are of that stripe. The great majority of Americans touring in Canada make a sincere attempt to obey the laws and should not be penalized for inadvertent violations.

Never turn up your nose at people. Remember the law of gravity.

Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America from Killamau, Ireland. They follow Emmett Murtough, to whom Sheila is betrothed. Neither Kildare or Murtough will hold steady jobs and Sheila goes to work as a waitress. She makes friends with the family of Bob O'Shea, a professional boxer, whose kindness interests her. Murtough joins a bootlegging gang and is involved with a cabaret girl. The gang plans to unload $150,000 worth of contraband.

At Charlie's invitation Murtough joined a party of two men and two women in evening dress and as the drinks began to be served more and more rapidly, Murtough's tongue was loosened. One of the women was particularly anxious to know "the inside" of "bootlegging" and professed the utmost admiration for the men who dared law and death to engage in it.

"It's really as romantic as in the days of the pirates," she said. "Just think what men must go through to unload ships at sea and all that."

"Oh, there's lots of excitement if that's what ye mean," Murtough said. "But there's no so much danger on the water as there is when the stuff has to be driven over land. At sea there's a chance of being caught by a revenue cutter, an' they'd blow ye to pieces if ye didn't come to, but on land ye run up against not only the government men, but hi-jackers an' grafters an' the local police an' state police too. Everybody's against ye on land. Why, only tonight—"

"Emmett," Charlie squeezed his hand in warning, but the Murtough was flustered by the attention of the woman who was listening so landing and Charlie learned all the details which had been revealed at Clocker's landing station. This was more news than the mysterious "Gus" could possibly want, she thought. When would "Gus" call at the Castle for the information and how soon would he pay her the $5,000 he had promised?

CHAPTER X

Idle Boats Are Boomerangs
Emmett Murtough was a sick man when he awakened that evening. Not only was he ill physically, but he recalled with no little misgivings that he had talked a great deal the night before, and he could not remember how much of importance he had divulged. He feared that he may have revealed details of Clocker's plans which, if learned, would be punished only as the head of the bootleg ring knew how to punish. Displeased and a sound thrashing by a couple of thugs was the usual portion with a warning to stay out of the vicinity of Clocker's district. Emmett decided to quiet his conscience by calling for Sheila at the restaurant.

Sheila was delighted to see him. The change in Emmett had pleased her mightily and she was anxious in turn to do all she could to help him in his ambitions, ambitions which he had confided while he was lying at her home injured. Sheila gaily invited him to take her for a walk through Central Park after her work was finished at Nick's.

She chattered happily, told him in all detail about hearing the announcement of the fights at the Garden round by round, speculated upon the arrival of the radio, and Murtough forgot his fears and recounted his night drives along lonely roads. With an Irishman's true blarney he painted the sky with bright stars and described the eerie night scenery as he sped by in his "express" truck.

The West End Club dances was to be held on the next Saturday night and Murtough promised her a glorious time and told her of the elaborate plans he had heard were being made for the affair. Everybody in the district would attend and even the Mayor and the Governor might drop in for a little while. It was to be broadcast also as one of the important political functions of the fall.

"Ah, Emmett, an' there's a change for the good come over ye here recent," said Sheila softly as they turned their steps back toward the entrance of the Park at the Circle. "Ye are softer an' gentler than ye used to be when I first come over here."

"Is due to you entirely," responded Murtough, carried away by the spell of her presence. "Tis due to you and nothing else."

"I'm glad, for sometimes I felt that maybe I was a bit strong-headed to be quarreling with you an' father all the time about yer business. After all, Emmett, ye are a man an' I guess perhaps ye know yer own business best at times."

"I'm doing well now, Sheila, but I want to do better yet."

"An' do ye think sometimes of the question ye asked me back there in Killamau just before ye came away?"

"Indeed an' indeed I do. 'Tis only that I want ye should have what ye should be having before we go to the priest," he said.

"I believe ye, Emmett, an' as I told ye, if when ye have made good as ye wish, ye put the question to me, I'll give ye my answer."

"But why can't ye promise now, Sheila?" he pleaded.

"Would ye want me to: wouldn't ye rather be free an' with no strings tied to ye until ye have done what ye wished?"

"Give me yer promise now, Sheila. It will help me to get on for I'll be thinking all the time of ye an' that ye are waiting an' hopin' for me to make good."

"Then I do, Emmett," she said simply, and turned to his arms there in the shadows of the trees. They were silent until they reached Sheila's home, Sheila content in having done what she believed was not only her duty to the boy who had come from Killamau, but what her love dictated.

Emmett was not so sure as his mind reverted to his other associates. Sheila would undoubtedly learn the truth about his "business" some day; if they were married by that time there was little that she could do about it, but if they were not, Emmett knew full well the scorn with which she would treat a law-breaker. Could he take the chance? He had, as a matter of fact, so that was all there was to it. But there was

Charlie, and he surmised that she might be a spiteful creature if she was aroused and might make him trouble if there was cause. Those complications, however, must be faced as they came, he decided.

Charlie hugged the information Murtough had poured out to her breast like a treasure, and he could find a buyer.

intently and the mood for boasting was on him. He told the story of the hold-up by the "agents" and the graft that was paid to them. He put himself in the shoes of Davlin and he let it be known with many repetitions, just how clever he had been in realizing that the tactful method of paying out a little money was better than to stand a chance of a real arrest and the confiscation of the automobiles and cargo if it proved that the men were honest enforcement men.

"And who do you work for," queried one of the men to whom the recital seemed endless and boring.

"Mumme—," Charlie stopped him at the word.

"Emmett, they don't care who you work for, they're just interested in the fun you have."

"That's true, but I wondered if it was for one of the big gangs about which we read in the papers. That was all," explained the guest. It was plain that this was the truth for the woman who had shown such a deep interest added that they were from the West and just "slimming" through the night clubs. The host of the table called for a check and with polite farewells to Murtough and Charlie they left. Shortly afterward the manager told the girl that she could go home.

"Where shall we go," Murtough asked when they were on the sidewalk. "I'd like a couple of more."

"Let's go down to Corrigan's and I'll eat ass sandwich. I'm hungry. They don't let us girls eat there, no matter if we're invited."

Murtough was at the danger line. He had enjoyed an audience and now he wanted to talk, he wanted to be thought the big man, the man who was in big business and who was to make thousands. Charlie played up to him as she always did and by the time Murtough had escorted her to her home, Charlie had learned definitely, not only that Emmett worked for Mamie Clocker, but the names of the men who were associated with him, and last but not least the news of the arrival of the ship with its $150,000 cargo. Murtough had boasted gloriously of the part he would play after the

FRIGIDAIRE saves average of $105.36 a year over ice refrigeration
Amazing facts reported by FRIGIDAIRE users
Low cost of operation an achievement of FRIGIDAIRE engineering

MANY still regard electric refrigeration as expensive. To prove that this is not true of Frigidaire, we sought the opinion of some 10,000 users.

Saves $105.36 per Year
The answers were startling. They indicated savings even greater than we anticipated. According to carefully tabulated records, an average of $105.36 per year—over and above all operating costs! These amazing economies are due to two things:

(1) No ice bills. (2) No food waste.

A Scientific Achievement

Frigidaire represents years of research and development on the part of Frigidaire Engineers, and the Research Department of General Motors—the largest organization of electrical, chemical and mechanical engineers in the world. In Frigidaire modern science has incorporated elements that the exterior of the cabinet can't reveal.

New, Low Prices

To the wealth of evidence in favor of Frigidaire, add the new, low prices—the lowest in Frigidaire history. A complete model with Duco-finished enamel-lined steel cabinet—all ready to attach and operate from any convenient electric outlet—for the amazing price of only $195.00 Delivered.

Few Dollars Puts It in Your Home

Frigidaire is used each day in the year. The whole family enjoys it. And it pays for itself with the money it saves, as proved by the signed reports of users. Visit our display room and see the new models. A small deposit puts one in your home. Then pay a little each month under liberal General Motors terms. Come in today.

YORK'S HISTORY TO BE GIVEN IN PAGEANT

(Editor's Note: The stirring days of the American Revolution, when the battle-worn Continental troops retreated from Philadelphia, and the Continental Congress fled to York, there to take up its deliberations, are being recalled as York prepares to observe the Sesquicentennial anniversary of the days when the community was the temporary capital of the United States.)

By International News Service
YORK, Pa., Sept. 15.—When Continental Congress, in the latter days of September, 1777, put the safety of the broad and bridgeless Susquehanna River between itself and the British Army occupying Philadelphia, its members settled down in the little town of York for a winter which was to embrace the darkest days of the American Revolution.

It was in October, only a few weeks after the delegates of the Colonies in Congress had established themselves in the provincial courthouse here, that John Adams, dispirited by the total absence of good news from the Continental troops, and with a price upon his head, was moved to inscribe upon the pages of his diary a gloomy soliloquy.

"The prospect is chilling on every side," he wrote, "gloomy, dark, melancholy and dispiriting. When and where will light come from? Shall we have good news from Europe? Shall we hear of a blow struck by Gates against Burgoyne? Is there a possibility that Washington may yet defeat Howe?—If Philadelphia is lost is the cause of independence lost?—No, the cause is not lost. Heaven grant us one great soul. One leading mind would extricate the best cause from the ruin which seems to await it. One active, masterly capacity would bring order out of this confusion and save our country."

In commemoration of those days of 150 years ago when the little town of York with its 286 homes and its population of barely 1,800 persons was the capital of the United States, five thousand Yorkers in a huge pageant of song and story next month will portray the city's Colonial and Revolutionary history. Three days, October 13, 14 and 15, have been set aside for the celebration.

The huge pageant will be given in the evenings of each of the three days of the celebration and three parades are being planned. One will be made up of school children and firemen, another will be devoted to military and civic forces, and the third will be of historic and industrial interest.

By public subscription a fund of $50,000 has been raised here to defray the cost of the pageant—the outstanding feature of the celebration. The broad grounds of the York County Agricultural Society will be the stage and there will be accommodations each evening for more than 25,000 spectators. From a tower above a grandstand seating 10,000 persons will be strung more than two miles of telephone wires connecting instruments necessary in the direction of the pageant's various actions.

"The White Rose of York," a scenario written by Lillian White Spencer, and being produced by Percy Jewel Burrell, holds the plot of the pageant. A chorus of a thousand voices, 3,500 costumed actors and dancers, will endeavor to interpret the city's history.

The Red Man rides toward the setting sun. There are newcomers in the land of Penn. The soil is tilled, the White Rose planted. York. War. The town sends its youth to the Colonial armies. Driven from Philadelphia by British occupation, the Continental Congress comes to York. Despair and then news of victory. A thanksgiving day is proclaimed. The Conway Cabal sends its treaty and its millions. A thousand voices sing the marshallaise. There comes news of Clinton's evacuation of Philadelphia. Congress rejoices. Victory. Freedom. President Washington visits York and is given the acclamation of the townspeople. So unfolds the story the Yorkers in their pageant will tell.

Many distinguished guests are expected to be numbered among thousands of out-of-town folk who will be in York during the three day celebration. Governor John S. Fisher has promised the local committee that not only will he attend, but that he will use his influence to bring about the attendance of the present governors of the twelve other original Colonies. Committees of Pennsylvania State Senators and members of the House of Representatives have been appointed and instructed to attend the celebration.

To the Hon. Oscar F. Rowntree, Lord Mayor of York, England, Mayor E. S. Hugentugler, of York, Pennsylvania, has penned an invitation.

"This town has derived its name," the Mayor wrote, "from your ancient city and its pageant will stage the marriage of Henry VII. and Elizabeth of York with the White Rose as the city's flower emblem of the promise of peace. We have been inspired in our preparation by the knowledge of your celebration in the same year of the 1300th anniversary of the baptism of King Edwin on Easter Day, 627, by the first archbishop of York at the site of your great cathedral. By reason of the connection of these sentiments, I take the liberty of sending you this greeting; with the cordial invitation to you and the people of York, England, to attend and participate in the celebration and historical pageant in York, Pennsylvania."

Five thousand dollars has been appropriated by the Pennsylvania Legislature to defray the expenses to be incurred by sending the Senate and House of Representatives delegations here and by dispatching a number of units of Pennsylvania State Militiamen to take part in the various activities.

Introduction of New AC and Rectifier Tubes Announced

New Tubes Replace "A" Batteries With Use of Small Transformers; Full Wave and Half-Wave Rectifiers for "B" Battery Elimination.

New tubes which with the use of a small step-down transformer will eliminate "A" batteries from receiving sets especially designed to accommodate them, and improved rectifier tubes for use in eliminating "B" batteries, or in special circuits to do away with "A" batteries, will soon be placed on the market according to an announcement by E. E. Bucher, General Sales Manager of the Radio Corporation of America. These new tubes numbering four in all are the result of ceaseless research and experiment extending over a number of years, on the part of the Radio Corporation and its manufacturing associates, the General Electric Company and the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.

"There will shortly be introduced," reads Mr. Bucher's announcement, "two AC types of Radiotrons having operating characteristics similar to those of the 201-A type and which insofar as performance is concerned give the same results obtainable from the 201-A or 199 types of tubes; but in which unrectified current obtained from a step-down transformer eliminates the usual 'A' battery. These are to be known as types UX-226 and UX-227.

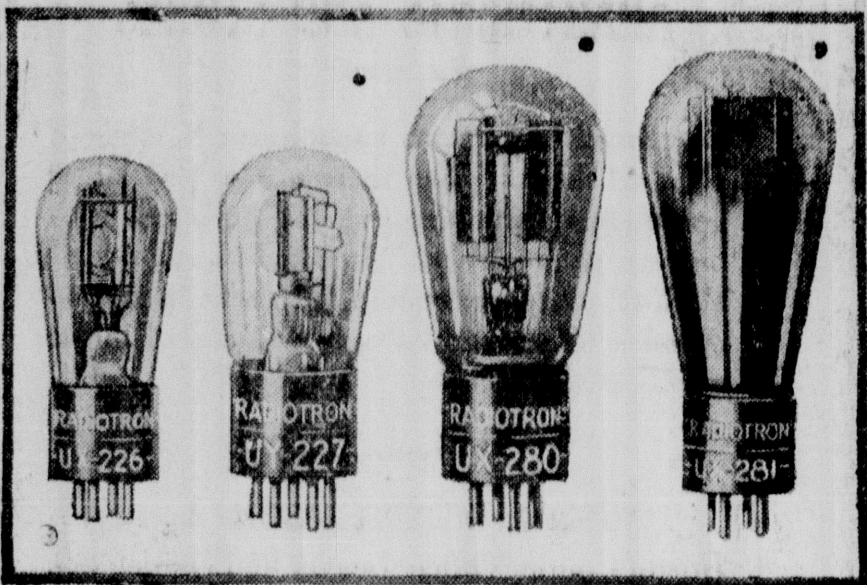

"In addition the Radio Corporation plans to introduce two new and improved Radiotron rectifiers of the filament type for use in 'B' battery eliminators, or, in special circuits for and in the first a. f. stage, UY-221 in the detector stage, and one of the Radiotron power amplifiers in the last audio stage, i. e., UX-112, UX-171 or UX-210. The requisite low-voltage supply for the filament may be obtained from an independent step-down transformer or from additional low-voltage windings on the usual "B" or plate supply transformers.

The New Rectifier Tubes
UX-280 is a full-wave rectifier designed for rectifying apparatus and circuits requiring greater D. C. output than that afforded by the standard Radiotron rectifier UX-213. UX-280 gives D. C. output current of 125 milliamperes. It may be employed interchangeably in radio devices designed for UX-213. The increased D. C. output of UX-280 will, however, be secured only in circuits especially designed for it. This tube has a maximum overall height of 5 1/2" and a maximum overall diameter of 2 3/16".

UX-281 is a half-wave rectifier similar in external appearance to the UX-216-B, although of increased physical dimensions. UX-281 is interchangeable mechanically and electrically with the UX-216-B, in all radio rectifying devices primarily designed for the UX-216-B. In circuits especially designed for UX-281, a D. C. output current of 110 milliamperes is available.

Both of the new Radiotron rectifiers are of the hot cathode type, equipped

The Four New Radiotrons

'A' battery elimination employing series filament drive. These tubes will be known as types UX-280 and UX-281."

"The new AC Radiotrons will not be immediately applicable to the present types of receivers," according to Mr. Bucher, "and they are not to be considered as taking the place of any of the present types of standard vacuum tubes. To accommodate the new AC tubes in the prevalent types of broadcast receivers, it would be necessary to make radical changes in design, and in many cases it would be entirely impracticable. The new with a new ribbon, oxide-coated filament which insures great ruggedness and long life.

Application of Rectifier Tubes
The new Radiotron rectifiers, UX-280 and UX-281, are immediately applicable to devices which heretofore employed UX-213 and UX-216-B, such as the RCA Duo-Rectron, the 104 Loud Speaker and the radio-phonograph combinations of the phonograph companies equipped for A. C. drive. It is expected that the new rectifier tubes will attain great popularity in battery eliminating devices, particularly as they do not necessitate the more

Max. Overall Height	4-11/16"

Radiotron rectifiers, on the other hand, are applicable to many existing radio rectifying devices without further adaptation. They will give outstanding performance in battery eliminators especially designed for their characteristics."

Following is a general description and detailed specifications of the new Radiotrons and their fields of practical application.

"AC" Types of Radiotrons
Radiotron UX-226 is a 1-1/2 volt AC filament type, drawing current of 1.05 amperes, and intended for radio frequency and audio frequency amplification in circuits especially designed for its use. The filament is energized from an AC lighting source through a suitable step-down transformer.

Characteristics of Radiotron UY-227

Plate Voltage	90	135	180	Volts
Grid Voltage	6	9	13.5	Volts
Plate Current	11.300	16.000	21.000	Milliamperes
Plate Resistance (AC)	725	820	870	Ohms
Mutual Conductance	8.2	8.2	8.2	Microhms
Amplification Factor	20	50	140
Max. Undistorted Output	20	60	70	Milliwatts
Max. Overall Height	4-11/16"

The operating characteristics of UX-226, other than the method of energizing the filament, are generally similar to those of the standard Radiotron 201-A. UX-226 is not recommended as a detector. It employs the standard "UX" Radiotron base.

Radiotron UY-227 is an A. C. heater type in which the electron emitting element (cathode) is made active through an independent internal heating element requiring 1.75 amperes at 2 1/2 volts, A. C. It is primarily intended as a detector tube in receiving sets where the radio-frequency and audio-frequency stages employ the UX-226 tube, although it may be employed for radio-frequency and audio-frequency amplification as well. UY-227 employs a special five-prong base.

Application of "A. C." Tubes
The new amplifier and detector tubes will be welcomed by amateurs and experimenters and it is likely that newly designed sets will employ Radiotron UX-226 in all r. f. sockets

Although the new AC tubes and the new rectifier tubes when employed in correctly designed circuits give satisfactory AC socket operation with most types of loudspeakers, nevertheless, the Radio Corporation has found no satisfactory substitute for the method of AC drive which it employs in Radiola 28 in combination with Loudspeaker 104; for the deep bass response of the Loudspeaker 104, from which it derives much of its tone quality, calls for an AC power supply system in which AC ripple has been reduced to the very minimum. This result is obtained in the 28-104 system of socket power operation, in which the filament current for the UX-199 tubes used in this set is obtained from the same source that provides the "B" current or plate supply for the receiver and the loudspeaker. Through this method, direct current, substantially free from ripples, is supplied to the filaments of the UX-199 tubes.

Briefs

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 15 (I.N.S.)—Increased business activity in the majority of the industries of the state is expected during the present month by the employment offices of the Department of Labor and Industry.

Reports from the various offices, made public today, indicate that while the latter half of August continued dull, increased production in many lines is expected during the autumn months.

Common labor in the large cities continues to furnish a great majority of the unemployed. Contractors in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh report that they are compelled to turn away hundreds of men daily who are seeking work.

Building and construction activity continues limited largely to municipal and state improvements. Contractors who specialize in the building of small homes have had difficulty retaining their usual working forces and many mechanics are seeking jobs.

The anthracite mines are working on an improved schedule and as a result other industries in that field already show signs of greater activity. Reports indicate increased production from the non-union mines of the bituminous field.

Expected activity in the metal and metal products industries have been slow to develop. The situation is reported as quiet in the Allentown field. There has been some improvement at Erie but a large number of skilled workers are unemployed. The same situation is reported from Pittsburgh, where the larger mills are working on reduced schedules.

A number of retail lines were stimulated by the opening of the public schools and the resultant demand for clothing and supplies.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 15 (I.N.S.)—Intoxication continues to lead all other causes for the revocations of automobile drivers' licenses.

Out of a total of 28 revocations, eighteen were caused by intoxication, the Highways Department announced today. There were five for larceny and four for reckless driving.

The intoxication revocations included Howard Smith, Lebanon; George Pantic, Lancaster; Ben Henry, Indiana, and Walter R. Harbaugh, Waynesboro.

Harold Martin, Uniontown, lost his license for larceny.

NOTICE

Croydon, Pa., Sept. 15, 1927.

It has come to my notice this week, that one person at Croydon has openly made certain accusations regarding my character and conduct, all of which statements are untrue and slanderous. I take the liberty in writing this open letter calling upon any person who has accused me of misconduct of any kind to come forward and prove the same or to make a public retraction of all such statements through the medium of your paper.

Unless this is done I shall take all necessary steps to require proof of the unfair and slanderous statements so made.

I am sending this letter to the Bristol Courier and the Bucks County Independent and request that these papers shall publish the same in their paper. I am a candidate for the office of Constable in Bristol Township and wish to be fair and just to all other candidates for any office within the Township, but my own candidacy is seriously affected, and work and assistance I might be able to give to other candidates is handicapped by the malicious and unwarranted allegations of a few people who are absolutely unable to prove or maintain one of their statements.

Yours truly,

progress being made in Germany. You need not be ashamed of your German blood if you have any, he told his listeners. Germany, he said, is the most stable country in Europe today.

Members of the teaching faculty were welcomed to the meeting by County Superintendent J. Harry Hoffman, chairman of the education committee of the club. The teachers were introduced by District Trustee Carmon Ross, who is also supervising principal of the Doylestown public school system.

Secretary "Russ" Thomas announced an unusually attractive program for next Monday night, September 19, that has been arranged by Ed. Neis, chairman of the athletic committee of the club. The speaker and guest of the club will be Coach "Bill" Stuhldreher, of Villanova College, famous All-American quarterback of the famous Notre Dame eleven. He was twice picked as the All-American selection for quarterback while one of the "Four Horsemen" of the Notre Dame line-up. "Ed" Huntzinger, assistant coach at Villanova, who also played on the Notre Dame eleven, will accompany Coach Stuhldreher to Doylestown.

Fifteen Cases Disposed Of At County Court house and 100 gallons of wine in the cellar of the hotel. Sturski told the court that he purchased the hotel from a man named Swartz, who left the wine there until he could remove it, and that so far as the whiskey was concerned, he did not know it was in the chicken house.

"You had better watch your step at that hotel," Judge Ryan told the defendant. "It will not go well with you if you get into court here again."

When the Commonwealth failed to trace two samples of cider from the office of the State Police in Doylestown to the chemist's office in Philadelphia, because of the absence of the State trooper who took the samples to the chemist, Charles W. Franz, of near Langhorne, was found not guilty by a jury in Court No. 2 yesterday afternoon and the costs were placed on the county. Judge Shull directed the verdict of acquittal to be rendered. The defendant was represented by Howard I. James, of Bristol.

Trooper Gowan testified that he raided the Franz home in Middletown township on July 21 and found eighty-two 50-gallon barrels filled with cider and vinegar. A small sample was taken and sixty-two barrels of cider were destroyed, the balance of twenty barrels being vinegar. The trooper said that Franz told him he sold the cider in Philadelphia and in Bucks County for twenty cents a quart.

Officer Gowan said he gave the samples to Trooper Simons to take to the chemist's office in Philadelphia. The chemist testified the cider was received by him but at this point counsel for the defendant objected to further testimony on the grounds that Trooper Simons was not in court, and he moved for the acquittal of the defendant.

"There is nothing to show that the samples are the same that were taken from the barrels in the Franz place or nothing to show the cider was intoxicating," said Judge Shull. "You may return a verdict of not guilty in this case."

Thomas Eush, of Croydon, was acquitted yesterday in Court No. 1 before Judge Ryan on a charge of larceny of $28 in cash from John Rulon. Both men were digging a well at a hosiery plant at Croydon when the money disappeared. Rulon laid his coat down near an outbuilding. There was $28 in the pocket. Rulon accused Eush of taking $28 from the coat. Later, an engineer of the hosiery mill found $15 in money in a cesspool in the building where Eush was seen entering. Judge Ryan directed the jury to acquit Eush.

John Geiger, of Trumbauersville, charged with the larceny of an automobile from a neighbor, was acquitted yesterday in Court No. 1 before Judge Ryan, upon direction of the Court. The grand jury ignored similar charges against Earl Brown and Frank Guerra. The Commonwealth charged that Geiger stole an automobile from William Stoll at Argus to take a girl to a dance. Earlier in the day, it was brought out, the owner of the car had given Geiger permission to operate the car. The car even: ally wrecked.

Harry Dixon, of South Langhorne, was fined $200 and costs yesterday by Judge Shull in Court No. 2 after pleading guilty to a charge of adultery.

Harvey B. Ship, of Trumbauersville, was acquitted in Court No. 2 yesterday before Judge Shull of a charge of operating an automobile without the consent of the owner, but the jury directed that the costs in the case be divided between the defendant and the prosecutor, Morris Rodenberger, of Trumbauersville.

It was brought out in the trial that Ship went to Rodenberger to collect a bill and that Ship later took Rodenberger's automobile. Judge Shull advised both the defendant and the prosecutor that the criminal court was no place to collect bills.

The grand jury yesterday ignored a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, against George Palzer, of Philadelphia, and placed the costs on the county. Palzer is also charged with involuntary manslaughter, being held responsible by a coroner's jury some time ago for the death of a boarder at his home, on the Feaster-ville pike.

The grand jury yesterday ignored bills against Robert Moore, of Willow Grove, charging him with driving an automobile while drunk, and a bill against James A. Connor, of Germantown, formerly employed by an automobile agency at Piteau, Flying Field, as sales manager. The men were riding in a new car when it crashed into the Edison bridge two months ago and moved the large guard wall several inches away from the base. Both men were seriously injured at the time. Connor was charged with permitting the operation of an automobile by one under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Russell To Arrive Home on Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad T. Russell will arrive at their home here on Sunday, September 18th, having left Liberia, where Mr. Russell is receiver of customs, in July.

Mrs. Russell will be remembered as Miss Pauline Winterstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Winterstein, of 211 Radcliffe street. Mr. Russell is likewise well known here, having resided here for a short period, and frequently made visits to Bristol.

Leaving Liberia on the 24th of July, Mr. and Mrs. Russell spent some time in Europe sightseeing. In Scotland the cities of Glasgow, Edinburgh and Aberdeen were visited, and an enjoyable ten days were spent in London, England. They also enjoyed a trip to Brussels and Antwerp, and later Paris, but found the latter city very crowded owing to the convention being held in the French city by the American Legionnaires.

Difficulty was experienced in booking passage from England to the United States, but the former Bristolians were able to set sail on September 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. Winterstein, Miss Virginia Winterstein and Ewald Henry will greet Mr. and Mrs. Russell in New York, after which the latter couple will remain in Bristol for some time.

DEFIANT SCHOOL GIRL FINED $100 IN COURT

Admits An Assault, But Asserts Others Provoked It

PUSHED HER, SNEERED

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 15.—A Morrisville miss yesterday talked herself into a fine of $100 and costs and narrowly missed being sent to prison. She is Miss Ruth Steiner, aged 19, former captain of the Morrisville High School girls' basketball team. Tuesday she went on trial to answer a charge of assault and battery upon Miss Mary Bone, science teacher in the Morrisville public schools. The jury took the case and returned a sealed verdict yesterday morning.

Throughout the trial, Miss Steiner, a tall and slender young lady, dressed in a very quiet blue dress and sport hat of the same color, testified and listened to other testimony in a noticeable defiant manner.

When she was called before Judge Ryan for sentence, there was not the least bit of repentance in her attitude. She stood erect and was quick in all but one answer to the Court. She hesitated a bit when she was warned that she could be sent to prison.

"You are guilty, young lady. Have you reflected upon your conduct?" asked Judge Ryan. Miss Steiner replied "No, sir."

"Are you sorry that you struck Miss Bone?"

"No, sir," came Miss Steiner's reply. "Well, it was a violation of the law and you had no right to strike Miss Bone. I suppose that no words of mine can impress you."

"Are you aware that I can send you to prison for this," continued the Court.

No answer came from the defendant. "Do you care whether I send you to prison or not?" asked Judge Ryan. "Why, certainly," was Miss Steiner's answer.

"Well, the only reason that I did not is because of your sex and your age," the Court reminded Miss Steiner.

Sentence was then imposed, a fine of $100 and costs.

The assault, the Commonwealth alleged took place on June 7 in front of the Morrisville Episcopal Church while a number of girls and Miss Bone were on the way to school. Miss Bone charged that the defendant struck her across the face and hit her while she was down on the ground and that she grabbed her glasses and tossed them into the church yard and made some unkind remarks to her.

2000 New Fall Hats $2.95

The Very Smartest---Special Value!

Matron and youthful miss alike may choose from this inviting collection---just the hat for the present Fall wear. Models in Autumn colorings to match every smart costume.

In Black, Wood Shades, Napoleon Blue, Carara, Wine, Tan, Navy.

Little hats whose simplicity is the result of clever designing. Pleats, creases and ribbons are charmingly used as trimming; while wish-bone brims, saucy turned-up brims, drooping brims, all stamp them as strictly this season's!

Felts, soleils, felt and satin and combinations!

Chic Hats Featuring Large Headsizes

Hats for the young and more mature woman, who demands the same smart effect in large headsizes as featured in tiny headsizes for the small head. This store has both types. In felt, velour and velvet.

Fashion in Every Line---in Every Color!

POST TOASTIES

—corn flakes that stay crisp in milk or cream

Delicious crispness that children's eager appetites prefer

Toasted double-crisp and temptingly seasoned, Post Toasties are the corn flakes that children's appetites prefer. Sealed into the lasting crispness of these golden flakes is the true delicate flavor of the tender hearts of succulent white corn. Give this crisp delight to children, to satisfy their eager appetites. Serve Post Toasties often—the crisp, delicious corn flakes that everybody likes—for breakfast, supper and in-between-meals treats. Make sure that you get the corn flakes that stay crisp in milk or cream. Ask your grocer for Post Toasties, and see that you get them in the red and yellow, wax-wrapped package that brings these corn flakes to you crisp, fresh and ready to serve.

Are You Really Well?

For Good Health There Must Be Proper Kidney Action.

Do you find yourself running down—always tired, nervous and depressed? Are you stiff and aching, subject to nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizzy spells? Are kidney excretions scanty and burning in passage? Know then that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system. If your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. More than 50,000 users have publicly recommended Doan's. Ask your neighbor!
